

I would like to thank the persons responsible for the Telephone Consumer Protection act. Since it has been implemented, there has been peace in my home. I am no longer forced to buy caller ID nor do I get an upset stomach every time the phone rings as I know that when it does ring now, it is someone that I want to speak with. As a person who works the night shift and sleeps during the day, I can leave my phone on for emergency purposes without constant disturbance.

Please do not weaken this law. It has been fabulous. It has made dinner time a family event again.
